Berlin (by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.), Oct. 31.-Among the items given out to-day for publication by the Overseas News Agency were the following:

"According to an Athens dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung," Great Britain offered Greece for her participation in the war on the side of the Allies not only Cyprus, but also the Dodekanesos Islands and South Albania. Great Britain further promised in case Greece entered the war the evacuation of the Ægean islands actually occupied by the British after the conclusion of peace and the payment of sufficient damages for their temporary occupation. "Prime Minister Zaimis declined the offer, emphatically repeating the statement that the people and army of Greece wanted to remain neutral."

The Dodekanesos Islands are in the Ægean Sea off the coast of Asia Minor, and enjoy autonomy under Turkish suzerainty. They include Scarpanto, Rhodes, Stampalia, Neros, Nicaria, Cos and Kaloymnos. The archipelago is known better under the name of Sporades, or Scattered Islands. It once belonged to Greece.

Apparently this is based on the fear that children cannot be excused for outside activities without drawing attention to the fact that certain children are going to religious instruction to specific churches. This fear is unfounded. Actually the procedure in Gary is as follows: A parent sends a note to the principal asking that his son, Johnny, be excused during the for religious instruction, or for private music lessons, or other extra-school activities.
